

New Berkeley Chamber Head Takes Over

5C SEP 18 1960

BERKELEY, Sept. 17—William E. Haigwood, 35, lately of Washington, D.C., but a former Bay Area resident, has arrived to become new general manager of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

He fills a post vacant since last June with the death of Weldon E. Vance.

For the past three years Haigwood has conducted a public relations and advertising business in Washington. Haigwood went there from the Santa Clara Chamber of Commerce, where he was general manager for three years, to become affiliated with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Later he was a public relations director for a manufacturers and contractors association. A graduate of Richmond High School in 1943, Haigwood holds a bachelor of arts degree from University of Colorado's College of Journalism. He was also graduated from Stanford University's Western Institute for Chamber of Commerce and Trade Association Executives and holds a master's degree in communications from the American University in Washington.

Haigwood has been accompanied to Berkeley by his wife and two children. He was the unanimous selection for the vacancy by the chamber's board of directors.
